

THE HUNTER'S CRAFT

Confessions of a Serial Killer

A Work of Fiction

STEPHEN VAN OLSEN

The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer

Press & Media Kit

By Abdul Jaludi

“Nothing can take the place of living through it, completing a successful hunt. Writing might be a cheap placebo, but it keeps me satisfied for a little while.”

Author Bio

Short Bio: Abdul A. Jaludi is a writer of dark psychological fiction and the author of The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer. Known for his haunting, confessional style, Jaludi explores the unsettling depths of human psychology, blurring the line between hunter and prey.

Medium Bio: Abdul A. Jaludi is an American author whose work probes the darkest corners of the human psyche. In The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer, he delivers a disturbing yet compelling portrait of a narrator who sees himself not as a murderer, but as a hunter. Drawing inspiration from real-world psychology and confessional narratives, Jaludi's work unsettles because it mirrors hidden impulses in us all. A veteran writer with a background in leadership and transformation, Jaludi brings a unique lens to fiction.

Long Bio: Abdul A. Jaludi is an author and strategic transformation leader whose career has spanned decades of reengineering complex systems and solving human-centered challenges. With The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer, he turns his attention to fiction, crafting a disturbing psychological exploration that forces readers to confront uncomfortable truths about morality, desire, and the thin veil separating civility from savagery. Written under the pen name Stephen Van Olsen, The Hunter's Craft reflects Jaludi's fascination with psychology, motivation, and the stories we tell ourselves to justify our actions.

Book Overview

The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer is a chilling confessional novel told in the voice of a killer who insists he is simply a "hunter." With disturbing clarity, he dismantles the notion of morality, equating his killings to sport. Readers are drawn into his mind, forced to wrestle with empathy, revulsion, and the uncomfortable realization that the line between sanity and madness is thinner than we think.

Key Points

- A raw, first-person psychological horror novel.
- Explores morality, justification, and the human desire for control.
- Ideal for fans of American Psycho or The Silence of the Lambs.
- Raises ethical and psychological questions perfect for book clubs and discussions.

Advisory: Contains disturbing themes, psychological horror, and brief mentions of sexual violence.

Press Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer — A Disturbing New Confessional Thriller

Milford, PA — Independent author Abdul A. Jaludi announces the release of The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer, a chilling novel written under the pen name Stephen Van Olsen. Told in a stark confessional style, the book offers readers an unfiltered view into the mind of a killer who insists his crimes are no different than hunting for sport.

Part psychological thriller, part literary horror, The Hunter's Craft invites readers to confront uncomfortable questions: What drives human pleasure? Where does morality collapse into justification? And why do we find ourselves drawn, however unwillingly, to the voice of a killer?

"Nothing can take the place of living through it, completing a successful hunt," the narrator admits. "Writing might be a cheap placebo, but it keeps me satisfied for a little while."

For readers of American Psycho or Silence of the Lambs, Jaludi's novel delivers a haunting exploration of obsession, morality, and the darkness inside us all.

The Hunter's Craft: Confessions of a Serial Killer is now available on Amazon in paperback and Kindle editions.

About the Author

Abdul A. Jaludi is an author, speaker, and transformation leader with decades of experience in solving complex organizational challenges. His fiction, written under the pen name Stephen Van Olsen, delves into the darker aspects of human psychology. He is also the author of Command the Chaos: The Art of Process Mastery.

Contact Information

Abdul A. Jaludi

Email: ajaludi@ptd.net

Website: hunterscraftbook.com

Phone: 845-699-7873

The Hunter's Craft was originally published under the pen name Stephen Van Olsen. For press inquiries, please refer to the author by his real name, Abdul Jaludi.